Memorandum.

The office of the Chairman and of the Executive Engineer, Mysore City Improvements Division, contain both officials holding permanent employment in the Mysore Service and others newly entertained. Permanent hands are entitled to all the privileges that are allowed in the Civil Service Regulation. The case of other officials newly entertained is not dealt with in that Regulation.

It appears therefore to be necessary to frame Bye-Laws under Sec 39 clause C for Regulating the privileges of such officials. The subject matter was laid before Government for orders, and instructions were received to frame Bye-Laws under Sec.39 Clause C. To safe guard the interests of all the Office hands and the Executive subordinates entertained with special qualifications it is essential that some tangible recognition is made by the Government secure honest work.

It is hard to make a distinction between officials holding permanent and temporary appointments as long as all of them work together and form part of the same establishment. The officials are being overworked and the

I would say that the case of "the other officials newly entertained" be treated on a par with that of the temporary officials employed in the Plague Department and the health office of the City of Mysore. The duties of these officials are in no way less onerous than those employed under the City Improvement Trust Board nor are they in any sense less educating to fit them for similiar work in the Offices generally of the administration.

In regard to the powers sought for by the Chairman I would say that if the Government be pleased to grant him the rank, status and privileges of a Superintending Engineer he be entitled to exercise all the powers of a Superintend-ing Engineer.

Those who are employed in the Departments under the Trust Board may be treated as those in the Health and Plague Departments. The Chairman of the Trust Board may ex-ercise the powers of a Superintending Engineer if the Govt. invests him with the powers of a Superintending Engineer and confers upon him the status &c belonging to it.
